Featuring: Our Toddler Classrooms!

Although they are not considered our “preschoolers” yet, our toddlers are extra busy during the school year following our formal school year curriculum. They follow the same themes and work on similar skills as our preschoolers, just on a developmentally appropriate level for a toddler! Through our curriculum, along with the teachers own personal twist, the children begin learning concepts such as color and shape, and continue to develop their vocabulary.

A toddlers day is full of activities that help them to explore the world around them. Our toddlers develop both academically and socially through activities such as circle time, art projects, sensory play, dramatic play, story time, and of course gym and playground time!

From Dave...

On November 8th the center will be closed for a staff development day. Historically, The Gingerbread House has closed on Columbus Day for staff development. This year St. Daniels is using our gym as a voting station, and we are expecting a lot of people in the building and around the campus voting.
